ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED RUSH — TIME DATED

TODAY & TOMORROW

JAN. 19-FEB. 1, 1985

Planned Parenthood of Alameda and San Francisco is sponsoring a colloquium entitled "Collision Course" on Saturday, January 26, at the Sheraton Hotel, Fisherman's Wharf, to address the medical, legal and ethical consequences of the new reproductive and neonatal technologies.

Michael Policar, MD, assistant professor, ob/gyn and reproductive sciences, is conference chair. Other UCSF speakers will be Eric Jeungst, PhD, assistant professor, ethics in medicine, "Redefining Parenthood: Ethical Issues of the New Technologies;" and Carl Levinson, MD, clinical professor, ob/gyn and reproductive sciences, "The New Medical Technologies of Conception."

Philip Lee, MD, UCSF professor of social medicine and director of the Institute for Health Policy Studies, and Philip Darney, MD, assistant professor, ob/gyn and reproductive sciences, will lead panel discussions.

The colloquium is cosponsored by the Institute for Health Policy Studies. For registration information call Planned Parenthood at 441-5454.

The PhD Program in Human Development and Aging now is accepting applications for the fall term. Students with BA degrees are eligible. Training in the social and behavioral sciences is preferred, but not required.

In addition to its core curriculum in adult development and aging, the program concentrates on gerontology and special problems of the adult life. The Graduate Record Examination is required for application and should be taken as soon as possible.

For applications and further information contact: Admissions Coordinator, UCSF Human Development and Aging Program, 1350 Seventh Avenue, CSBS 237, or call x77-285.

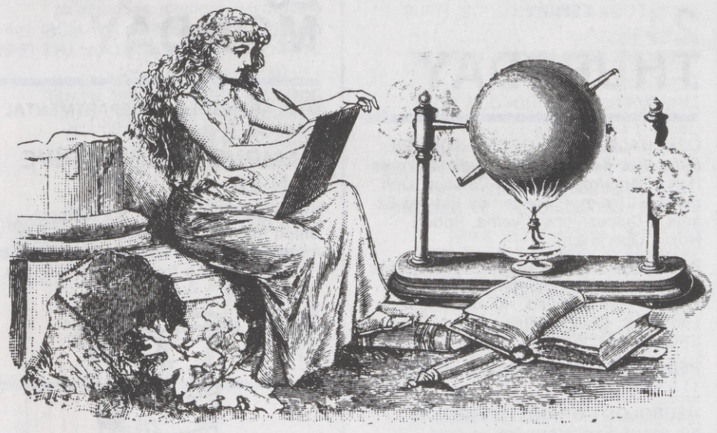
DEADLINE

Deadline for the next issue of Today & Tomorrow, covering the time period Feb. 2-15, will be Tues., Jan. 22, 11 a.m. Please send your copy to Allen Balderson, News & Public Information Services, 532 Parnassus Ave., Rm. 300, x1541 or x2557.



The week of February 11 the campus will host two guest lecturers.

• Cristine Russell, the award-winning national medical and science reporter for the Washington Post and panelist for "Washington Week in Review," will be the Fifth Chancellor's Distinguished Lecturer for the Public Understanding of Science.

Russell, who will be on campus meeting with faculty and students February 11 to 15, will present a public lecture entitled "Science in the Eye of the Storm—Conflicts in Communicating Research to the Public" on Wednesday, February 13, at 4 p.m. in Cole Hall.

• Stephen M. Krane, professor of medicine at Harvard, will be the First Rosalind Russell Distinguished Lecturer. On February 12 he will discuss "Heritable Diseases of Connective Tissue," in Carr Auditorium at SFGH at 11:30 a.m.; on February 13 "Poget's Disease of Bone" in Cole Hall from 10:30 a.m. to noon and "Cellular Interaction in Inflammatory Joint Disease" in HSW 300 from 4 to 5 p.m.; and on February 14 "Effects of Vitamin D Metabolite on Lymphocytes," at the VAMC, Building 200, Room A-173 from 11 a.m. to noon.

The first open public meeting for residents living in the Laurel Heights neighborhood of the Fireman's Fund building will be held on Monday, February 4, at 7 p.m. in the building's auditorium.

The meeting, the first of several, will provide an opportunity for the neighbors of this area to meet Chancellor Krevans and other top UCSF administrators to discuss the series of steps that will be taken to occupy the building.

The planning process will include campus community and neighborhood communication at many levels. It is intended that the Laurel Heights site will combine academic programs, support services for academic programs and some administrative offices, according to Krevans.

The UC Regents announced the purchase of the Fireman's Fund building for UCSF in late December.

Mayor Dianne Feinstein has named Philip R. Lee, MD, professor of social medicine and director of the Institute for Health Policy Studies, as chair of the newly formed San Francisco Health Commission. Lee will lead a group of seven providers and consumers on the new commission, which was mandated in the November elections to run the city's entire health apparatus, including SFGH.

Recognized nationally for his expert perspective on health policy, health care delivery and health manpower, Lee came to UCSF from Washington, DC, where he was assistant secretary for Health and Scientific Affairs in the US Department of Health, Education and Welfare from 1965 to 1969. His responsibilities there included the Public Health Service and the Food and Drug Administration.

Earlier, the Mayor had designated David Werdegar, MD, MPH, as interim public health director for six months starting January 15. Werdegar is associate dean for the UCSF School of Medicine at SFGH, and was among the officials most actively involved in restoring the hospital's medical standards after a critical state report threatened the loss of its accreditation early last year. During the six months, Moses Grossman, MD, will serve as acting associate dean at SFGH and Donald Fink, MD, will serve as acting chair of family and community medicine, it was announced by Dean Schmid.

The opening of a new UCSF Center for Neural Injury—a multidisciplinary research program with core laboratories at the VAMC—was announced on January 10. Under the direction of Alan Faden, MD, professor and vice chair of neurology and chief of the VAMC Neurology Service, the Center will focus on research, prevention and treatment of paralysis associated with spinal cord injury, head injury and stroke.

In announcing the new Center, Chancellor Krevans gave special thanks to Walter Baird, trustee of the Isabelle Niemela estate, which made a contribution of $1 million to the UCSF Foundation in support of the Center, and the National Research Institute for Neural Injury (NRINI), a private, not-for-profit corporation, which also supports the new Center.

NEWS BRIEFS

The W.K. Kellogg Foundation has awarded a grant of $272,305 to continue the Geriatric Nurse Practitioner Program another three years at the UCSF School of Nursing.

The Foundation also has awarded an additional $75,000 for UCSF participation in a program to evaluate the effectiveness of geriatric nurse practitioners (GNP).

UCSF is one of five institutions in the west participating in a comprehensive, three-year-old project to improve nursing home health care to older people through the education and use of geriatric nurse practitioners. National surveys indicate that persons over age 65 comprise the fastest growing segment of the American population, making nursing care for the elderly a topic of increasing concern.

The GNP program, offered by the UCSF Department of Mental Health and Community Nursing, provides advanced training in health assessment and patient care management to registered nurses already active and practicing in the field of aging and long-term care. By spring 1985, 39 nurses will have completed the 11-month UCSF program of intensive classroom and clinical work focusing on special health care needs of older people.

The first stage of a satellite network joining the libraries of all the University of California campuses was inaugurated last month.

The new system, when completed, will make the entire UC book collection in more than 100 libraries available to faculty and students throughout the state.

The UC library system contains about 20 million volumes and is surpassed in this country only by the Library of Congress, according to Michael Buckland, professor and dean, library information studies, UC-Berkeley.

Under the new system, library patrons with a proper ID will be able to request publications from computer terminals in the libraries.

Nutritionist Marion Nestle, PhD, has begun a new lecture series on campus entitled "Nutrition in Preventive Health Care." The lectures are held on Tuesdays at noon.

The series is part of the new UCSF Nutrition Education Center, established by a $368,000 contract from the American Cancer Society to Nestle. The contract is a gift to the ACS from John Tung of Hong Kong, an international businessman and philanthropist, and his wife, who specified that their donation be used to support nutrition education for health professionals.

The next lecture will be on January 29 in HSW 301. Guest lecturer Steven Hulley, MD, professor of epidemiology, will discuss "Diet and Prevention of Coronary Heart Disease."

A special memorial service honoring Julius H. Comroe, Jr., MD, the world-renowned specialist in heart and lung physiology, was held on January 15. Comroe died of cancer last July at the age of 73. He was director emeritus of the CVRI.

Paying tribute were Chancellor Krevans, School of Medicine Dean Schmid, Lloyd H. Smith, Jr., chair, Department of Medicine; Richard J. Havel, director, Cardiovascular Research Institute; and Jay Nadel, senior staff member, CVRI.

All members of the UCSF campus community are invited to participate in a logo designing contest for the new UCSF Children's Medical Center.

Entrants may submit as many different logo designs as they wish. Entries may consist of anything from rough sketches to finished artwork. Designs should incorporate the concept of a children's health care center as part of a larger medical facility and may be symbolic, use letters or words or both.

Entries should be identified by the designer's initials on the original artwork and an accompanying 3" x 5" card with the designer's name, initials, address and telephone number. All entries must be submitted no later than Friday, February 15, to: Patricia Hunter, Department of Pediatrics, Room 696 Moffitt Hospital.

The person whose design is selected as the official logo will receive $250. The artwork will become the property of the University. For futher information call Jay Tureen, MD, x5001.

A Steinway piano will be dedicated in memory of Hollis B. Gray at the first Committee for Arts and Lectures Twilight Concert, Wednesday, January 23, at 5:30 p.m. in the Millberry Union lounges. A performance by piano duo AnnaMarie and John McCarthy will follow the dedication.

A UCSF employee for some 23 years, Hollis Gray was a principal administrative analyst in Hospital Administration, who played the piano and organ at many UCSF social functions. The piano was donated by Leona Gray and family at the time of his death in January, 1984.

Hospitals and Clinics Director William B. Kerr will speak at the dedication, preceded by a wine and cheese reception at 5 p.m.

Tickets for the performance are $3 for UCSF students and Millberry Union members, $4 general admission. They are available by calling x2571.

Norman Cousins, professor of the medical humanities, Department of Psychiatry and Biobehavioral Sciences, UCLA, will be the Grete Simpson Visiting Lecturer on Thursday, January 31, 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. in HSW 301. Cousins' topic will be "Where Medicine Begins." He will be the 11th speaker in a series of 20 supported largely by the Grete Simpson Fund.

Other lecturers will be George Vaillant, psychiatry, Dartmouth, Feb. 14; George Pollock, psychiatry, Northwestern, Feb. 21; Peter Sifneos, psychiatry, Harvard, Mar. 7; Donald Cohen, Yale Child Study Center, Mar. 21; Joseph T. Coyle, child psychiatry, Johns Hopkins, Apr. 11; Frederick Goodwin, NIMH, Apr. 25; Kalle Achte, psychiatry, University of Helsinki, May 16; Emanuel Peterfreund, psychiatry, Mt. Sinai, May 30; and Edwin H. Cassem, psychiatry, Harvard, June 13.

For additional information contact Jeffrey Cohen, MD, x77-305.

The AIDS Task Force is sponsoring a new research program to address the epidemiology of AIDS in various risk groups, particularly women, and to study the heterosexual transmission of AIDS.

These important areas have not been adequately addressed by proposals submitted for funding, according to the Task Force.

Faculty from all nine UC campuses are encouraged to submit proposals by Monday, January 21, to the Secretariat of the AIDS Task Force, 764 University Hall, Berkeley, CA 94720, (415) 642-0732. Funds will be available February 1 to June 30, 1985. For further information contact the Contracts and Grants Office at x2977.

Dean Rudi Schmid of the School of Medicine has announced the new title of associate dean for student and curricular affairs for David F. Altman, MD, effective July 1985. This new position will combine the functions of associate dean for student affairs, a position Altman has held since December 1983, and that of associate dean for curricular affairs, a position held by Alan Goldfien, MD, for the past 10 years.

Goldfien plans to take a sabbatical leave and will return to his teaching, research and service functions as a senior faculty member.

Albert L. Jones, MD, who has served as associate dean of admissions since July 1980, will leave this position but will continue as associate chief for research at the VAMC and will continue to direct the unit in cell biology and intestinal immunity.

Lloyd H. Smith, Jr., MD, will become part of the Dean's Office when he accepts the position of associate dean of special projects and admissions, also effective July. Smith announced last year that he would step down from the position of chair of the Department of Medicine. A convocation will be held in his honor in April.

Sheridan-Flynn Infant Clothiers will hold the second Baby Valentines Fashion Show to benefit infant care at UCSF in the Grand Ballroom of the St. Francis Hotel on Tuesday, February 12. A luncheon will precede the show at 12:30 p.m.

Proceeds will be used to help support UCSF postdoctoral research on respiratory distress syndrome.

Suggested donation for the fashion show and luncheon is $50 per person. For tickets contact Mary Kay Sheridan or Irene Flynn, 3462 Sacramento Street, SF, CA 94118, 921-5961.

The Hospitals and Clinics will no longer sell tobacco products in the Gift Shop or in vending machines within the hospital. Bear's Wares also is following this policy. The action came as a result of the Executive Medical Board unanimously recommending to Chancellor Krevans that UCSF adopt a campus-wide policy prohibiting the sale of tobacco products, and that he appoint a campus committee to review the smoking policies on campus so that they conform with state and city codes.

Wells Fargo Bank has installed an automated teller machine next to the Millberry Union Central Desk. People who have a Wells Fargo checking or savings account can use their Wells Fargo banking card to access the ATM for withdrawals or deposits. People who do not bank at Wells Fargo may obtain a "special limited service card," only valid at the UCSF ATM, which allows UCSF employees to cash up to $20 a day against their own bank accounts. For further information visit a representative at the Wells Fargo office next to the UCSF ATM Monday to Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.
